

GUIDELINES FOR PHOTOCOPYING UNDER CLL'S ANNUAL COPYRIGHT CLEARANCE LICENSING SERVICE

The licence provides for legal photocopying of extracts from books, journals and periodicals owned by the licensee for enrolled students, employees or clients of the licensee.

COPYING PERMITTED UNDER YOUR LICENCE ...

- up to 10% or one chapter of a book (whichever is the greater);
- up to 15 pages of all (or part) of a single work contained in a collection or anthology of works, even if the works are published separately;
- one article (or part of an article) from a periodical—additional articles may be copied from the same periodical if they are on the same subject;
- an artistic work (such as an illustration);
- a complete work, only where the work is out of print and unavailable for purchase (authority to photocopy required from Copyright Licensing Ltd);
- material obtained through the Interloan service if it cannot be obtained from any other source.

Incremental copying from books is not permitted. If you want to copy more than 10% of a work, then permission will be required from CLL or the copyright owner.

All copies should be identified with source details and copyright information advising that no further copying is permitted.

The cost of copying can be recovered from students/clients receiving copies.

The licence does not permit copying from the following works:

- works that state they may not be copied under a copyright reprography licence of this nature;
- works downloaded from the Internet;
- printed music (including the words);
- loose maps and charts;
- unpublished religious orders of service;
- house journals (publications for employees);
- New Zealand newspapers;
- photographs and/or illustrations published separately from a textual work;
- unpublished works created by educational institutions and used internally or under licence;
- privately owned work issued for tuition purposes and limited to a clientele who pay fees;
- theses, dissertations and student papers;
- electronic works and databases of works;
- 'Copy Permitted' publications that can be freely copied for educational or other purposes.

Permission must be obtained from the copyright owners before copying any of this material.

Copying Records

CLL needs to know what copyright material is copied under licence to determine what proportion of licence fees should be allocated to the copyright owners of works copied.

Under the Annual Copyright Clearance Licensing Service Licensees are required to maintain full records of all material photocopied under licence and provide quarterly returns for invoicing purposes.

Copyright record forms provide the following information and are to be forwarded to CLL for processing no at the end of every quarter (March, June, September, December). The licensee is invoiced for the amount of copying carried out under the licence on a quarterly basis.
